Irises

MAKE YOUR SPRING GARDEN A RAINBOW OF COLOR

Greek mythology tells us that Iris was a virgin, the personification of the rainbow and messenger of the gods to men.

No greater appreciation of the flower can be given today than that which the ancient Greeks gave when they bestowed this name. The colors of the iris are iridescent, liquid; all efforts to describe their beauty seem futile. One might as well try to describe the silken sheen of the poppy.

Although the iris has been named for a virgin, its regal beauty suggests rather a royal leader, a king or emperor, garbed in robes of satin and velvet with lacings of gold. There is something bold and vigorous about the iris and while one may find varieties blooming in the summer, autumn or winter, it generally flowers at a time when it can be most appreciated, in the months of March, April, May and June—a veritable “Lord of the Spring.”

The new irises are the result of careful selection and breeding by the world's best hybridists. An iris usually blooms the second year from seed and out of hundreds of seedlings no two will be precisely alike. The stock of a new iris may be limited to one bulb, and the increase is naturally slow from the propagator's point of view. This accounts for the high price of new introductions. As the stock increases the price falls. Some of our finest irises are reasonable in price because they are older introductions.

I can say quite honestly, however, that I feel that all the higher priced novelties listed in my catalog are well worth the price.

ELIZABETH HARDEE,
Member American Iris Society.

Terms

PRICES QUOTED ARE FOR SINGLE RHIZOMES

My terms are cash with order. Money will be refunded for any variety which I cannot furnish. No substitutions will be made without consent of the buyer. While I have a large stock of most of the standard varieties my supply of the latest importations is necessarily limited.

A dozen of any one variety of iris, listed at $1 or less, will be sold at the rate for ten. For varieties listed at more than $1 each the prices are net.

I use great care in keeping my stock true to name, but should any prove untrue I will, on proper proof, replace it.

Delivery free, in California only, if by parcel post. On orders of less than $1.00 add 25c for postage.

The name of the originator is, where known, given in parentheses.

The figures preceding the names of the varieties are the ratings given in the recent symposium of the American Iris Society.

The American Iris Society has checked on many of the Bearded Iris and this checking has been indicated by numbers—100 being a perfect iris, 90 and over very fine, 85 fine, 80 very good, 70 good.

While everyone may not agree with these decisions, and they are not final, yet in general they are a good guide to follow.

S signifies "Standards" or upright petals; F the "Falls" or drooping petals.

Please note the high ratings of irises in this catalog.

Note—These prices supersede previous lists or quotations.

Cultural Directions

Irises are all sun-lovers and should never be planted in dense shade. Some varieties keep their color best in partial shade but all must have sun at least part of the day.

Always select a well drained soil, preferably heavy. Work it well and top dress with wood ashes, lime or bone meal. Never use fresh manure.

The bearded irises can stand a long period of drought, but appreciate plenty of water as they approach the blooming season. Occasional deep watering during the summer is helpful in keeping the bulb in good condition and the foliage green.

Never allow irises to stand in water. Root rot is usually due to a cold, soggy soil or a soil in which there is decayed vegetable matter. If new soil is used for an iris planting be sure that the sod or weeds are thoroughly disintegrated.

Plant about a foot to eighteen inches apart and transplant when crowded. Some varieties give best results when they have formed a clump. Isolene is one of these. Others bloom well from a single rhizome. In replanting use the young, vigorous offshoots, discarding the old root. Barely cover the rhizomes or fleshy roots and be sure that no manure comes in contact with them. Always water a new planting until root growth is established, but exercise care at this time not to overdo the watering and cause the roots to rot. Do not plant irises between heavy shrubbery; always permit them to have air and sunshine.

Where irises occupy a prominent place that is likely to look bare during the summer plant perennial Phlox between the bulbs. These will give a mass of bloom during the season when the iris is dormant and will not crowd the bulbs. A background of Delphinium will add to this charming effect. A planting of Zinnias will not injure the iris but will give color during the summer. In planting between irises use care not to overcrowd or shade them too much.

For landscaping and open sunbaked vistas nothing is so satisfactory as a planting of the light blue Pallidas. The effect at a distance is that of a shimmering sheet of water. When the flowers have gone the foliage will hold its own under the most trying conditions.

No flower is more satisfying than the iris for home decoration. If cut in the bud when about to open the flowers will expand in the house in their full richness of color and last a long time. Every bud will blossom, replacing with a fresh flower those which fade.

SEEDLING NO. 2. This seedling has attracted a great deal of attention in my garden, and I am offering it for sale this season for the first time. The flowers are of medium size with flaring falls borne on 40-inch stems and are of an intense lupine blue that does not fade in the sun..... .75

In planting the bearded iris remember that the upper surface of the rhizome must be exposed to the sun and air. Deep planting will keep the iris from blooming satisfactorily. Bone meal is a safe fertilizer and dehydrated lime will keep the soil sweet and the foliage clean.

Rare Varieties

STOCK LIMITED—PRICES QUOTED BELOW ARE NET AND FOR SINGLE RHIZOMES

American Iris Society Rating	Price
APHRODITE (Dykes). S and F bright violet-pink. The falls have a white flush from the center of the blade to the haft. This variety is recognized as the world's best pink iris. The general effect is a decided pink tone. Its good size and perfect form, with its prolific blooming habit, increase its popularity	10.00
AURELLE (Denis). S light purplish blue; F rich glowing crimson-purple with a golden beard. Its habit and shape of flowers are very much like Mme. Gaudichau, from which it is a seedling, but it far surpasses its parent by virtue of the beautiful luminous effect of its fine falls. One of the new varieties, still very scarce.....	7.50
CITRONELLA (Bliss). This is the very best yellow iris from England. Its carriage is perfect, and so are its standards, but the falls are smaller and of a dark shade. It is in very great demand among breeders and collectors	7.50

DOMINION (Bliss). S of Dauphin's blue or light bluish-violet, large, erectly held, well developed, and richly veined; F of exceptional substance, expanding at the base to a deep rich indigo-purple velvet. There is a little veining in the throat, violet-purple on white ground. Beard orange, very pronounced. Quality of entire bloom is the very best. The plant, however, needs extra care, perfect drainage and probably some protection from Winter and Spring rains. Stock limited....	15.00
IMPERATOR (Cayeux). S clear violet tinted buff; F reddish violet, throat reticulated with red-brown. This is one of the most promising of the new irises from France	5.00
LEONATO (Hort). Unquestionably the finest bicolor in the world. From the tip of the standard to the tip of the fall it measures over 6-in. Larger than any other iris in existence with the exception of Ricardi Blanc, Bleute and Peerless. This ought to rate at least 95. 4 ft. John C. Wister in Bulletin No. 7 of American Society, page 10, says of this iris: "Nothing more beautiful than this flower can be imagined"	8.00

The following varieties require some water during the dry season. In the case of Iris Siberica the best results are obtained by planting in a moist location or where they can have the regular watering given flower beds. The lovely green grass-like foliage will repay one for this care.

OCHROLEUCA

(Apogon)

Syn. "ORIENTALIS GIGANTEA." White with yellow blotch on falls; tall and handsome; very decorative as a cut-flower25

IRIS SIBERICA

(Most elegant of all the small flowered irises. Narrow grassy foliage with tall, slender stems. Extremely effective planted near pools.)

ORIENTALIS. Intensely brilliant flowers of gentian blue; stems 3 feet25

UNGUICULARIS

(Native of Algeria)

Midwinter flowering, blooming from Fall to Spring

STYLOSA. Lilac blue with grassy evergreen foliage. The leaves of Iris Stylosa form clumps like the wild iris. The flower stems are often 8 to 10 inches and the flower, though small, is unusually effective because of its clear coloring and horizontal falls.25

PSEUDACORUS

YELLOW WATER IRIS. Bright yellow flowers, 3 foot stems. Will thrive in water and damp localities.25

DOROTHEA K. WILLIAMSON. Large flowers of velvety dark madder violet. 2½ feet. 1.00

FOETIDISSIMA. The Gladwyn iris; an exceptionally fine strain with handsome deep green leaves, and flowers varying from greenish and light yellow tones to bright red-purple; ornamental pods of bright scarlet seeds in fall.50
